Secretary Speaks

Every dawn, a season, a new year, fresh efflorescence of the flower or a soul, or even a birth of a child brings much cheer and hope. Beginning of every New Year also marks the passing of a year and presents an opportunity to every individual, institution or a nation to learn from the time and events that lapsed.

For the Akademi, dawn of every year brings along, in addition to the lessons to be learnt from the previous year and the hopes which the year ahead springs forth, the moment of unbridled joy, Akademi's own festival. This festival, very aptly called Festival of Letters, is a Festival of Joy. It is a Festival of Joy not only for the people associated with the Akademi, but all the literary connoisseurs spread across the country.

Every Festival bring together finest minds of modern India, provides opportunity for invigorating intellectual discussion and a platform for young people to learn from the eminent thinkers and writers, but more importantly a space for the mingling of varied traditions of India. In addition to the regular features of the Festival of Letters such as Award conferment, a three-day National Seminar, Spin-A-Tale, etc, this year saw the introduction of 'Tribal Language Poetry Festival' and a daylong symposium on 'Translational Consciousness.'

A large number of public gathering and embracing the week-long Festival of Letters, more than any other Festival of Letters in the past, was something that was most gladdening to hearts.

Akademi continued its regular events including the centenary celebrations to honor the doyens of the past; the latest edition of BhashantaraAnubhava took place in Triupati down south; the Akademi was glad to host and engage Prof Jiang Jingkui, winner of Ananda Coomaraswami Fellowship for 2015; participated in the Delhi International Book Fair and continued its commitment of enhanced focus on the North-Eastern Regions of India by organizing a number of events in the region and also featuring writers and poets from the region in various parts of the country in addition to a few workshops involving North-Eastern languages.

I hope Akademi's patrons and readers of this Newsletter are enjoying our coverage and your continued support and encouragement is vital to our growth and I take this opportunity to wish all our readers a very happy Yugadi, Baisakhi, Vishu, Tamil New Year and GudiPaduva

The Akademi also hosted 3 Russian writers in addition to the literary delegations from Spain, Fiji, New Zealand and Thailand.

Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, in his speech, reiterated the Akademi's commitment to literary service across the country and highlighted that in the past year the Akademi organized one programme every 18 hours and published one book every 20 hours. He thanked the writers' community for their unflinching support and cooperation and appealed to everyone to highlight Sahitya Akademi's commitment and good work.

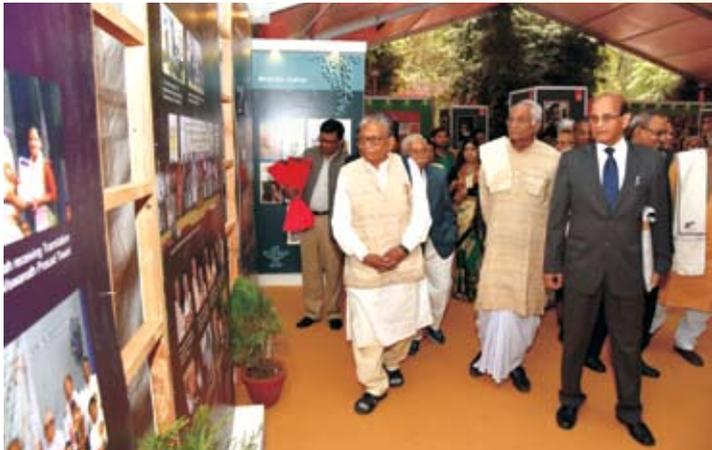

Dr Manoj Das, in his speech, thanked the Akademi for inviting him to inaugurate the Akademi Exhibition and said he was honored. Dr Das said but the for Akademi, most of good literature from vernacular languages would have remained unavailable to majority of masses in other communities and the Akademi should be lauded for uniting the entire country through translations and also making best of literature from one language available in other languages. He shared an interesting anecdote from 1957 featuring the then President of Sahitya Akademi, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and highlighted the Akademi's role in the rise and development of literature in regional languages. He congratulated the Akademi for its dignified stance in the middle of the controversy that erupted in 2015. He pointed out that his association with Sahitya Akademi is 55 years old and urged the youth of the country to join and stay with the Akademi.

Later, the President took Dr Das and other members to visit the Exhibition and provided explanations regarding the photos depicting seminal events in the Akademi's history.

TRIBAL LANGUAGE POETRY FESTIVAL

February 16, 2016, New Delhi

The theme and focus of 2016 Festival of Letters is Tribal, Oral and North-East Literature. As part of that focus, Sahitya Akademi introduced Tribal Language Poetry Festival featuring noted tribal poet from all over the country.

Prof Mrinal Miri delivering inaugural address

In his welcome speech, Dr K. Sreenivasarao thanked all the poets for coming all the way from their native places and observed that no other country in the world is as rich and diverse linguistically as India is. He highlighted the role of oral traditions in the dissemination and carrying over of cultural components of communities all over India and Sahitya Akademi's commitment to preserve and propagate the tribal and oral literature across India. He pointed out that the Akademi had its centers for tribal and oral literature in the North-East at different places and in the past year have opened centers in Imphal and Delhi dedicated to this task. He then delineated several unique features of oral traditions and their role in the conveying of culture from one generation to the next.

Prof Mrinal Miri, eminent scholar and educationist, inaugurated the Tribal Language Poetry Festival. Prof Miri thanked the Akademi for inviting him to inaugurate the festival and talked at length about various aspects of language formation and language propagation, especially among tribal communities, not only in India, but across the globe. He said Sahitya Akademi's efforts in this direction should be applauded and encouraged since the Akademi not only strives to preserve and propagate a tribal or unwritten language but all of literary forms contained in those traditions.

Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, thanked Prof Miri for the detailed exposition on language and talked at length about various Indian philosophical expositions on language. He also highlighted how the natural living of tribals renders their language pure and simple even though theirs is a community living. Dr Chandrasekhar Kambar, Vice President, Sahitya Akademi, in his speech observed that India is a home to more than 400 languages and most of them are tribal languages. He felt it is sad that when tribals are brought mainstream, ironically, they tend to lose their unique folk identity and folklores disappear from their lives. Dr Kambar said steps like the current tribal language poetry festival in the national event are sure to strengthen tribal and folk literature

Seventeen tribal poets recited their compositions on varied themes. Dr Devendra Kumar Devesh, Officer-on-Special Duty, Sahitya Akademi, coordinated the event.

Cultural Programme : Karma Dance – the dance of the tribals of Odisha

In the evening there was a performance of Karma Dance, a ritual dance of Binjhal tribe of Odisha. The dance was performed by the Padampur Sangeet Samiti which is a registered organization devoted to the restoration of the glorious cultural heritage of Borasambar region. The organization has specialized unit in the performance of Karma. Their specialization showed out in the exemplary performance of the Karma dance to the delight of select audience. The movement of grace coupled with the poise of female dancers and grandiose of the music generated by the male performers coupled with the devotion to Karamsani stood out in the performance. It was an evening of cultural entertainment mixed with spiritually uplifting theme and devotional performance. It was a new environment created by the troupe for the writers and scholars assembled in a serene atmosphere of the Rabindra Bhawan Lawns. The troupe for the benefit the audience provided running commentary and elaborations where needed.

SAHITYA AKADEMI AWARDS PRESENTATION

Sahitya Akademi, India's Premier Literary Institution, presented Sahitya Akademi Awards to writers in 24 languages at a glittering ceremony in FICCI Golden Jubilee Auditorium in New Delhi on February 16, 2016. Dr Gopi Chand Narang, eminent Urdu scholar and Fellow of Sahitya Akademi was the Chief Guest at the function while Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akdemi, presented the Awards to the writers. Dr Chandrasekhar Kambar, eminent playwright and Vice President of Sahitya Akademi and Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi also attended the presentation ceremony.

In his welcome speech, Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, stated that the Akademi is a home of writers and for the writers. He highlighted various details and Akademi's achievements to point out how Akademi has been rendering literary service to the nation with writers at the core. He reiterated that the Akademi will always stand by the writers of all kinds. In his Presidential address, Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, highlighted the greatness of Indian literature in all its forms and urged the fellow nationals to give up aping colonial civilizations. He provided a number of examples to prove that even minor languages of India are much richer than the ones of Europe or America or Africa. Dr Tiwari said it is through literature can unity be achieved and communal & dividing elements can be defeated. Dr Tiwari said he is proud to be associated with the Akademi which is rendering selfless and yeomen literary service to the nation by preserving and propagating all the Indian literary traditions and in 24 recognized languages and also in minor languages and dialects of India.

In his speech, the Chief Guest Dr Gopi Chand Narang, eminent Urdu scholar and Fellow of Sahitya Akademi, applauded Sahitya Akademi for carrying out literary service in all the 24 recognized languages and observed that Sahitya Akademi is the premier democratic literary institution that promotes writers and to the best of his knowledge no other organization does it. He highlighted the resonance across cultures, from Lao Tze, Bedil, Ghalib & opined that all espouse the same thought and principle. Dr Narang said God has given us beautiful earth but we humans have divided it on the basis of language and religion. Language binds but also causes schisms and it divides. Dr Narang observed that it is the responsibility of the writers to unite the humanity through language and literature. Dr Narang concluded by alluding to the grey area between darkness and light with written word and unwritten language and said that writing is the grey area between darkness and light and more than the written word it is the unwritten, unspoken word that carries higher meaning.

Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, read out the citations and Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari presented the Awards. Dr Chandrasekhar Kambar honored the Awardees and also thanked all the dignitaries and media friends.

INTERACTION OF AWARD WINNERS WITH MEDIA

Winners of Sahitya Akademi Award 2015 met and interacted with the representatives of various media houses at 11 a.m. on February 16, 2016 ahead of the Award Presentation ceremony in the evening. The session was moderated by Amar Nath 'Amar' and Rafiq Masoodi. Earlier Ms. Gitanjali Chatterjee, Deputy Secretary, Sahitya Akademi and Sri Kumar Anupam, Editor of Hindi at Sahitya Akademi, introduced the Awardees.

The interaction started with Rafiq Masoodi asking the Awardees about the future of literature in the face of dwindling reading habits and vanishing sales of books, especially literary books. The Awardees led by Volga responded saying that future of literature should not be viewed from the urban mindset but also should take into account enormous interest in books, reading and literature in the villages across India.

Sri Arun Khopkar said writers should come forward and embrace technology for electronic books have many advantages. He also agreed with fellow awardees on the interest for books and reading in the villages and pointed out strong Dalit current sweeping the villages of Maharashtra to substantiate that. Maya Rahi, Award Winner in Sindhi opined that writers and educationists should use technology to their advantage and also for the betterment of writers' community.

Kula Saikia, Award Winner in Assamese continued the discussion and observed that while the reading is a social habit and books can be gifted but ebooks score over print versions because of their portability and web-access. He also did not agree that reading habits and publishing sector is in the wane. According to him the opposite holds true.

Sri Dhian Singh, Award Winner in Dogri, observed that writers should not write from parochial motives and should have broad mindedness and he urged the fellow writers to maintain high standards.

Veteran writer Sri Ramdaras Mishra observed that newspapers are no longer the carriers of literature as they used to be in the past. Sri Cyrus Mistry, Award Winner in English, while replying to a question from media whether writer is a social reformer by design or default, observed that writer writes for his own satisfaction rather than with any other goal in mind. Sri Arun Khopkar felt that a writer has to engage with his medium and intentions do not matter.

Cultural Programme : Following the Awards presentation ceremony, an act of Raas Lila was performed by the Jawaharlal Nehru Manipur Dance Academy. Vasant Raas, which is one of the most beautiful of Raas Lilas and celebrated normally on Chaitra Purnima was enacted. The dance depicting the eternal love of Radha and Krishna was performed with grace by the troupe as divinity and fragrance of Godhead filled the air. Costumes, rich in texture and color, coupled with the grandeur of the act itself – gopis searching and wailing the vanished Krishna and the joy and holi color spread upon uniting with the Lord made the performance a truly memorable one.

YUVA SAHITI: NEW HARVEST

Sahitya Akademi's annual Festival of Letters continued for the third day and the first programme of the day was Yuva Sahiti, a programme devoted to the young writing across India.

In the inaugural session Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the dignitaries, young writers from all over the country and other participants. He talked about the value of young people to all civilizations and observed that it is young people who are the drivers of change. He said young writing assumes more significance in the light of the circumstances and the times in which we are living and the crisis humanity is going through across the globe. He highlighted several programmes, schemes and projects that the Akademi has in place exclusively for the young writers / poets / translators across the country in addition to the Yuva Puraskar. He urged the young writers to utilize these facilities of Sahitya Akademi through any of its branches and benefit.

Prof Sukrita Paul Kumar, noted English poet and critic, in her inaugural address, dwelt at length upon the creative writing, the process involved and the impact it leaves on the writer and the reader. She said writing has nothing to do with age and she said she feels young whenever she starts writing. She laid out few principles of creative writing that she had imbibed during her career such as a catholic mindset, openness of the heart and uncluttered thought flow, which she thought might be useful to the young writers assembled. Freedom of mind, freedom of heart and freedom of physical space are vital for any creative writing. A writer should strive to release himself / herself from clutches of all kinds including that of a language and the cited examples of Samuel Beckett and Jhumpa Lahiri writing in a foreign language and then translating the same into the language of one's writing to establish that language need not be a constraining factor.

Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, agreed with the thoughts and principles of Prof Sukrita and said he is happy that more and more young writers are getting opportunities to express themselves at different levels. He thanked Prof Sukrita for agreeing to chair and inaugurate the young writers' festival. Seven noted young poets, Bijoysankar, Barman Ashok Amber, Sejal Shah, Arjun Golasangi, Arimbam Rimeeta Devi, Mary Margaret and Mohd Rasheedi, recited their compositions towards the end of the inaugural session.

In the first session that was devoted to 'Why do I write?' and chaired by Sri Angshuman Kar, three noted young writers, Sri Gauri Shankar Nemiwal (Rajasthani), Ms. Indira Dangi (Hindi) and Sri Veeran Kutti (Malayalam), presented their papers enumerating their reasons on why do they write. In the second session devoted to story reading and chaired by Shri Brajendra Tripathi, four noted young fiction writers, Sri Binod Ghoshal (Bengali), Sri Naresh Naik (Konkani), Sri Prashant Bagad (Marathi) and Sri Kshetrabashi Nayak (Odia) read out their stories. In the third session devoted to poetry reading and chaired by Sri Brajendra Tripathi, ten noted young poets, Sri Rujab Machahary (Bodo), Sri Mahtab Manzoor (Kashmiri), Sri Balkar Aulakh (Punjabi), Sri Seemal Tudu (Santali), Sri Navneet Kumar Jha (Maithili), Sri Ranjeet Gurung (Nepali), Ms. Vaneeta (Tamil), Sri Narayan Dash (Sanskrit), Ms. Sangeeta Bapuli (Sindhi) and Sri Mihir Chitre (English), recited their poems.

SAMVATSAR LECTURE

Every year during the Festival of letters Sahitya Akademi invites an eminent scholar to deliver a lecture that betrays a deep concern for values, throws light on different ways of thinking, that engages the speaker and the audience about creativity, literature, life etc.

Dr Chandrashekhhar Dharmadhikari delivering the Samvatsar lecture

Many great minds have adorned this platform and great speeches have been delivered on the occasion. Some of the distinguished people who have delivered Samvatsar lecture in the past are Agyeya Vatsyayan, Umashankar Joshi, Vidya Niwas Mishra, Nirmal Verma, U.R. Ananthamurthy, Sitakant Mahapatra, Manoj Das, Amitav Ghosh, Karan Singh, A.P.J. Abdul Kalam and M.T. Vasudevan Nair.

The guest speaker of the day, Dr Chandrashekhhar Dharmadhikari is an eminent Gandhi scholar. Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the guest speaker, spoke about the objectives of the programme and introduced the speaker to the audience.

Accepting Akademi's offer to deliver the annual Samvatsar lecture and feeling honored by the magnanimous gesture of the Akademi, Dr. Dharmadhikari at the outset made an admission that he felt wholly inadequate to address such an august gathering full of literary luminaries. He said that the language he uses is a curious admixture which he has named "hirathi" - an amalgamation of his mother tongue Marathi and the national language Hindi. He said he spent 10 crucial years of his childhood under Gandhiji's influence in Wardha. He is beholden to the 'samskara' of Swadeshi and one particular event - Gandhiji's interview to the BBC on 15th August 1947 where he said "tell the world that from now on Gandhi does not know Hindi" moved him so much that he took a vow to speak in Hindi, even in his verdicts as a dispenser of justice (judge) he has stuck to Hindi although barring some international seminars. He has whole heartedly believed in the slogan of swadeshi, having worn khadi all along and having participated in the Quit India movement in 1942 when he was just 15 have left an indelible imprint on his mind. He said he had immense respect for literature and for the creators of literature. A writer has the unique talent to search for knowledge as well as bliss from all creation and from life itself.

He said that the human race is facing a very difficult time where old values, old established system of thought are facing decay and death and new systems have to be set in place yet. So these are times of flux. A writer has to express the same in his work; also it is important that a writer should be a living example of the writing he espouses. If there is an incongruence of thought and action, a writer may be living a split personality syndrome which would lead to a hypocritical dual lifestyle which is wholly undesirable.

The world faces crucial questions. Today's world is one terrorized world. Everyone is busy safeguarding their interests. Nobody trusts the other. In such an atmosphere of distrust and disbelief how can one trust, love, respect and help the other? How can complete distrust be replaced by complete assurance? Man has become man's greatest enemy. It is then, the sacred duty of the writer to build bridges through his writing. He opined that we have to do a re-think and develop a sense of duty than just have an acute sense of rights. Doing one's duties well, one's rights are automatically assured. One should ruminate on one's as well. Sister Nivedita, in response to a question on whether there is an Indian mind, opined that there are three special qualities that Indian possess and these are synthesis, harmony and co-ordination. Acharya Vinoba Bhave defined "Sahitya" as one which moves alongside life. Sahitya, according to Dr. Dharmadhikari is a kind of yagna - a ceremonial worship, an offering. Literature or Sahitya is not just a mirror to reality. It should lead to revolution in thoughts and action. Sahitya should reflect sincerity and commitment.

Today, more than ever, man has become self centered. Core values of life which are instilled by the family are missing because parents are busy with their own lives. Often, the television acts as a babysitter, then can we really blame the young generation if they are not interested in literature? Does a writer live a part of what he writes as well- is something the new generation wants to know. if he does not, if there is a conflict or contradiction between what he writes and what he truly is, never will great literature be forthcoming. He then spoke elaborately about the havoc social networking sites are causing to the society instead of meeting face to face, people now prefer connecting on face book. A British organization-divorce online researched in 2012 and came up with the data that 33% of divorces took place due to face book. Virtual reality is taking over the larger reality. Also, the advent of smart phones has led to an increase in the problems of memory loss and deafness. People also live in anxiety and waiting for a reply or a like or a message and suffer from what is now called "nomophobia" also, increased use of digital devices has led to isolation of the individual whereas the crux of human life is socialization. How to bring back the human aspect in this era of commoditization is a big question facing the creator of literature.

Sahitya means the welfare of all, according to an old definition. And what can be achieved by the pen cannot be achieved by the sword. Books/literature is not just a physical, tangible reality but an emotional reality as well. We are faced with new challenges in these new times for which readymade, instant solutions may not be available. We can face the change by the dictum of - think globally, act locally he then went on to talk about the system of justice and how it is dependent upon a number of factors. The law ensures that everyone is equal in its eyes but a broader perspective shd include equal opportunities as well. Today there is the paradox of "bharat" vs "India". Dr Dharmadhikari felt that justice should be dispensed in Hindi as well. The saints and philosophers of our country have taken forth the principle of one nation one people more than any other section of people. We have to arouse nationalism of the people- the work that was done by saints and philosophers in the past. We have to look a fresh at ourselves, removing our spectacles.

Every year Sahitya Akademi organizes a national seminar with relevant themes as part of the annual Festival of Letters. This year's focus is on the three prominent makers of modern India.

In the inaugural session, Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the dignitaries, participants and audience and spoke briefly about the scope and objectives of the seminar. He stated that the seminar is one of the steps that Akademi is initiating in highlighting the importance and relevance of these doyens to the 21st century India.

Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, talked about how Gandhi Nehru and Ambedkar, though each one different and pursued different ideology and path, influenced each other in direct or indirect ways. He pointed out the ways in which Gandhi influenced Nehru and also pointed out that differences between Gandhi and Ambedkar on the issue of caste led to a full length discussion on the nature of the institution itself.

In her inaugural address, Dr Kapila Vatsyayan, eminent scholar, talked about how great leaders like Gandhi and Nehru occupied the mental space of the masses. Dr Kapila Vatsyayan highlighted the spiritual dimension of Gandhi which Nehru and Ambedkar did not share and observed that unlike the current times where all the three leaders occupy our mental space, in the 1950's and 1960's only Gandhi and Nehru dominated the memory of the public. She wanted to find out from the Akademi experts if 'adivasis' can be equated with dalits and congratulated Sahitya Akademi for organizing such a wonderful seminar.

In his speech, Dr Krishnakumar, eminent scholar and educationist, highlighted the major distinctions among Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar and observed that while Gandhi's vision (at a fundamental level) centered around man, revolution and evolution of man and his relationship with the state. On the other hand Ambedkar's vision and contributions centered on the State and how to streamline social institutions. He also highlighted how Gandhi and Ambedkar differed in their approaches on abolition of caste system.

In his keynote address, Dr Manoj Das, eminent scholar and Fellow of Sahitya Akademi, talked about how and why all the three leaders should be treated as agencies for change for which India was ready. He said spiritual understanding of movement of this type is necessary, for, otherwise it would be impossible even to conceive how was it possible for one or two persons to galvanize the entire country at a time when there were no means of fast communication or travelling.

In his concluding remarks, Dr Chandrashekar Kambar, Vice President, Sahitya Akademi, highlighted the changes that took place in almost all the spheres of human activity and how Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar were responsible for it.

In the first session devoted to 'Freedom and Non-violence' and chaired by Prof Sitanshu Yashaschandra, three eminent scholars, Sri Nand Kishore Acharya, Sri Pundalik Naik and Ms. Anuradha Roy, presented their papers 'Himsa se mukti hi swatantrata,' 'Gandhi Nehru aur Ambedkar: Saatatya aur asaataatya' and 'Gandhian social ideology coming to terms with Nehruvian state: Thoughts and Experiments in Bengal' respectively. In the second session devoted to 'Response to the West' and was chaired by Dr Bhalachandra Nemade, two eminent scholars, Malchand Tiwary and Kunal Chattopadhyay, presented their papers focusing on the impact of the three leaders in Rajasthan to boycott western things and Ambedkar & Indian Nationalism, respectively.

PURVOTTARI : NORTH-EAST AND NORTHERN WRITERS' MEET

Sahitya Akademi organized a programme ‘Purvottari’ featuring eminent writers and poets from North-East and Northern regions of India. In the inaugural session, Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the dignitaries and participants of the event. He observed that despite beautiful landscape, wonderful languages though mostly oral some time ago and vast amount of literature, almost all of literature from the region was not reaching other parts of India. He informed the audience that to remedy this situation and restore the balance with reference to relationship between various literary traditions, Sahitya Akademi has been promoting literature from North-East by way of organizing a number multilingual writers/poets’ meets connecting writers/poets from North-East and different parts of India and also publishing tribal and oral literature from the region.

In his inaugural address, Sri Lakshmi Nandan Bora, eminent Assamese writer said he is very happy that more and more writers from North-East are getting to interact and learn from the writers and poets of rest of India. He said he is very happy that because of Sahitya Akademi, more and more translators from the North-Eastern region are getting to know nuances and techniques from translators of other regions and languages.

Inaugural session of the meet in progress

In his Presidential speech Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari said ‘Jitini vividhta uttar-purvotri bhashaon aur Sanskrit mein pai jati hain utni vividhta aur kahin nahi hai.’ He also expressed his deep concern about the future of marginal languages which are in danger because of the electronic and print media. He also said that the promotion of North-Eastern literature is on the top agenda of the Sahitya Akademi.

In the first session that was devoted to ‘Why do I write?’ and chaired by Smt. Rita Chowdhury, five noted writers, Sri Aurobindo Uzir (Bodo), Sri Virendra Jain (Hindi), Sri Vikram Sampath (English), Ms. Lairenlakpam Ibemhal Devi (Manipuri) and Krishna Kumar Toor (Urdu), talked about why they write. Sri Uzir said despite lot of efforts he is not able to trace the reasons for his writing and stated that writing came to him naturally and at a very early age. Sri Virendra Jain said a number of unsavory incidents in his life forced him to look for ways of catharsis and writing provided him best platform to express himself and free his mind. Sri Vikram Sampath said he would agree with Orwell and give four reasons of the former – sharing ego, aesthetic enthusiasm, historical and political purposes. Ms. Lairenlakpam Ibemhal Devi said her love for nature and her gregarious nature ensured she opted poetry writing. Krishna Kumar Toor said his craving to share his feelings took him to writing.

In the second session that was devoted to story reading and chaired by L. Joychandra Singh, two noted fiction writers, Ms. Manika Devee (Assamese) and Sri Roop Singh Chandel (Hindi) presented their papers. In the third session devoted to poetry reading and chaired by Leeladhar Mandloi, ten noted poets, Sri Pranjit Bora (Assamese), Sri Sushil Begana (Dogri), Sri Abdul Rashid Shad (Kashmiri), Sri Ajit Kumar Azad (Maithili), Sri Longjam Ibotombi Singh (Manipuri), F. SYMPOSIUM ON UNWRITTEN LANGUAGES

The second edition of the symposium on Unwritten Languages of India was organized on the Day 5 of the Festival of Letters 2016 at Rabindra Bhawan Lawns in New Delhi.

Inaugural session of the symposium in progress

In the inaugural session, Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the participants and audience and spoke about the discussion of the first edition and hoped this year too symposium would be successful. He urged the experts to speed up the process of preserving and propagating more and more unwritten languages since the number of unwritten languages are vanishing fast and thick. He thanked Dr Debi Prasanna Pattanayak and Dr Mahendra Kumar Mishra for participating in the symposium.

Dr Debi Prasanna Pattanayak, distinguished scholar and linguist and who was the Chief Guest of the Symposium, talked about the distinction between the written and unwritten languages and observed that with the advent of the printing press the hegemony of the written word gained supremacy and pushed the indigenous languages were pushed to the background. With this, the unwritten literature got relegated to folk literature and anthropology became a handmade of colonialism. Written literature became a mark of culture. Dr Pattanayak also talked about the historical process by which the supremacy of written languages was established slowly and surely. He observed that what is not being documented and researched is the decimation of written languages and spread of illiteracy due to colonial domination. Telephone, Radio, Television, Computer, Mobile, Android Technology made writing superfluous. First casualty was letter writing and second was reading books. He stated that though technologies provide facilities to reach small languages and small communities using them, they also exerted pressure for getting rid of multiple channels for creation and transmission of knowledge and go in for simple solutions of dominant mono-lingualism. Communities are being redefined as cyber-entities. Dr Pattanayak informed the audience that India is at the top of the list of endangered languages. He concluded saying that before our very nose written languages are slipping into unwritten spoken languages and are dying out with the last speaker of the language but our sophisticated technologies are not able to save them.

In his keynote address, Dr Mahendra Kumar Mishra, eminent scholar and folklorist, talked about beauty of Indian literary tradition is unwritten and oral. British education system corrupted the oral traditions with the force of written literature by the state. He quoted Gopabandhu “the literate people of this country may be head but larger masses of the country is the soul.” The unwritten languages were historically silenced due to the dominance of power with writing system during the past centuries. Dr Mishra also stated that the oral literary traditions like myths, epics and tales are necessary to understand the history of time and conditions of people and also that inspite of multilingual situation oral tradition of India fosters unity of thought and knowledge representing a common paradigm in Indian literature. He also warned that 21st century will witness a rapid decline of linguistic diversities. He lamented that majority of people are unaware neither of the fact that so many languages are vanishing nor do they have any idea what it means to lose a language and that loss of language would mean loss of thought and knowledge.

In his presidential address, Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, stated that oldest literature in the world is Rg Ved and it is shruti – that which is heard. When the same is committed to memory is called Smrti and it is this process of committing to memory and creating a written literature that Max Muller. It is through unwritten language and oral tradition that vast amount of literature that was disseminated from one generation to another generation for thousands of years. Dr Chandrashekar Kambar, Vice President, Sahitya Akademi, talked about the role of folklore and folksongs in the preservation and propagation of knowledge and culture from one generation to another. He informed the audience that majority of languages are unwritten and we should learn to look after the literature contained in the majority of literature and our ignorance and arrogance should not prove too devastating for humanity itself.

In the first session, devoted to 'Challenges of Scripting the Unwritten Languages' and chaired by Dr Awadesh Kumar Mishra, three noted scholars, Sri B. Ramakrishna Reddy, Sri Pramod Pandey and Sri Ganesh Murmu, presented their papers focusing on different kinds of challenges that they face while trying to evolve suitable scripts of spoken dialects but unwritten in nature. NATIONAL SEMINAR ON GANDHI, AMBEDKAR, NEHRU CONTINUITIES AND DISCONTINUITIES

Day 2

The National Seminar on Gandhi, Ambedkar, Nehru: Continuities and Discontinuities continued for the second day at the Sahitya Akademi auditorium in New Delhi on February 19, 2016.

The third and fourth session of the seminar in progress

The third session of the seminar and first session of the day was devoted to ‘Freedom of Expression’ and was chaired by eminent Kannada writer, Prof S.L. Bhyrappa. Two noted scholars, Sri Sudhish Pachauri and Prof Makarand Paranjape, presented their papers focusing on ‘Jantantra Mein Lekhak aur Lekhak ka Jantantra’ and ‘India’s Intolerance Battle’ respectively. Sri Sudhish Pachauri talked about the freedom and various perspectives from the point of view of writers. He said there are various levels of freedom such as freedom from the state, freedom from the social shackles etc. He highlighted how Mahatma Gandhi found his own way to freedom personally. Writers should reflect upon their position and role in the state and act accordingly. Prof Makarand Paranjape began by posing a question to the audience ‘Is intolerance the other side of tolerance or is it the opposite of tolerance?’ He gave the example of intolerance in India with the incidents involved with Sri S.L.Bhyrappa’s work, who was in the Chair. He said that Sri Bhyrappa was also the victim of such intolerance in Karnataka. But instead of choosing to shouting slogans or be a part of any anti-national movement he chose to write a novel and he has shown how writers should fight intolerance. Prof Bhyrappa spoke extensively about caste and communal politics which is creating divisions among the citizens of the country. He said it is pitiable that governments in the country followed the same divide and rule policy of the Britishers.

The fourth session was devoted to ‘Women and Equality’ and was chaired by Dr Rukmini Bhaya Nair. Three noted women writers Ms. S. Faustina Bama, Ms. Urmila Pawar and Ms. Rakshanda Jalil presented their papers about women and equality with reference to Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar. Faustina Bama said that equality means equal freedom, rights and respect for women at home, in the streets, in the market places, in the work places, in the schools and universities and in places of worship. In other words, besides equal economic and political rights, we seek particularly equal social and cultural space. For all this to happen, we need not only changes in law but also in our mind sets, attitudes and cultural practices. She concluded her paper with the words of Baba Saheb Ambedkar said Equality “for ours is a battle not for wealth or for power. It is battle for freedom. It is the battle of reclamation of human personality.” Urmila Pawar highlighted the similarities in the views of Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar about women. Rakshanda Jalil delineated the influence of Gandhian and Nehruvian ideas of women on theatre and film industry. A lively question-answer session followed the presentations.

The fifth session was devoted to ‘Caste and Equality’ and was chaired by Prof K. Satchidanandan. Three noted scholars Prof K. Enoch, Sri Ramdas Bhatkal and Sri Rajkishore presented their papers focusing on Caste & Equality and Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar. In his speech, Prof K. Satchidanandan delivered a lecture on the necessity of bringing back the philosophies of Nehru and Ambedkar on the face of increasing caste violence and communal disharmony that the country is witnessing. Prof Enoch focused on the evolution of caste and how it degrades other social institutions over a period of time. Sri Ramdas Bhatkal focused on the similarities and dissimilarities, continuities and discontinuities in the perceptions about Gandhi by Nehru and Ambedkar. His paper took Gandhian thought as focal point and looked at the continuities and discontinuities. Sri Rajkishore highlighted the plight of dalits and backward class people in India and observed that in this context the thoughts and philosophies of Ambedkar and Nehru are relevant today.

The sixth and last session of the day was devoted to ‘Language Question’ and was chaired by Dr Bhalachandra Nemade. Two noted scholars Sri Prithvi Datta Chandra Shobhi and Sri Soyam Lokendrajit Singh presented their papers focusing on ‘Three Dimensions of Language Question’ and ‘Language, Communication and Domination’ respectively.

SAHITYA AKADEMI ANNOUNCES CONFERMENT OF FELLOWSHIPS

Sahitya Akademi announced on February 15, 2016 that it will confer Sahitya Akademi Fellowships, its highest honor on two distinguished litterateurs of India, Prof Gurdial Singh and Sri Nirendranath Chakravarty. Exact date of conferment will be announced later. Sahitya Akademi Fellowships are normally bestowed on best of the best immortals of Indian literature with the rider that at any given point of time the number of Sahitya Akademi Fellows shall not exceed twenty-one.

Prof. Gurdial Singh is an eminent Punjabi writer and novelist. He was born on 10 January 1933 in Bhaini Fateh. He started his literary carer in 1957 with a short story “Bhaganwale” which was published in Panj Darya. He rose to popularity with the publication of his novel Marhi Da Deeva in 1964 and later in 1989 a film based on the novel also came out. He has 37 publications to his credit which include ten novels, eleven collections of short stories, three plays, two prose works and nine books for children. He has also translated more than 30 works into Punjabi. Sri Nirendranath Chakravarty is an eminent Bengali poet. Born in 1924, Sri Chakravarty pursued journalism to begin with and was the editor of the children’s fortnightly Anandamela. Chakravarty is one of the distinguished ‘modern’ poets of Bengal. Felicity of expression and perspicacity of diction are among the main traits of his compositions distinguishing him from the rest of his tribe.

His principal works include Nil Nirjan, Andhakar Baranda, Kolkatar Jish, Shreshtha Kavita and Ulanga Raja. He was the recipient of the Sahitya Akademi Award for Ulanga Raja. He is also an eminent translator and has translated a number of children’s works and poetry into Bengali.

SEMINAR ON TRANSLATIONAL CONSCIOUSNESS AND INDIAN LITERARY TRADITIONS

Sahitya Akademi organized a daylong seminar on Translational Consciousness and Indian literary traditions as part of Festival of Letters at Rabindra Bhavan Lawns in New Delhi on February 20, 2016.

In the inaugural session, Dr K. Sreenivasarao, Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the dignitaries, participants and audience and talked about how translation lies at the core of all of Akademi's activities. He hoped with the help of translators' community across India that the seminar on translation will become a regular feature of Festival of Letters.

In his Presidential address, Dr Vishwanath Prasad Tiwari, President, Sahitya Akademi, talked about the translation activity that is inherent in the social fabric of India. He pointed in a multilingual society like India where language changes every 100 kms, it is impossible to conceive of a life without translation of one kind or the other. Crude or refined, translation always existed and was on use on a day to day basis in India. He highlighted various works, periods, movements of translations over the past 2000 years and observed that translation is natural to Indians.

Prof Indra Nath Choudhuri, eminent Hindi scholar and former Secretary of Sahitya Akademi, who was the Guest of Honor, sated that India is a translation area. He wondered why no single critical text specifying the art or science of translation parallel to expert treatises in other fields and felt that maybe the exclusive attitude of Indians with regard to language and privilege of the speakers and their master narrative was responsible for this lacuna.

In his keynote address, Dr Awadesh Kumar Singh, eminent Hindi scholar, said that translation permeates everything and the world is a construct of word but the word is a translation of the idea. Idea is abstract and languageless, translation facilitates its manifestation in concrete forms through different aural visual performative media of communication. In a way, no communication can become a reality without translation and translational consciousness.

Dr Chandrashekhar Kambar talked about translating cultural components of a language into another and

NATIONAL SEMINAR ON GANDHI, AMBEDKAR, NEHRU CONTINUITIES AND DISCONTINUITIES

Day 3

The National Seminar on Gandhi, Ambedkar, Nehru: Continuities and Discontinuities continued for the third day at the Sahitya Akademi auditorium in New Delhi on February 20, 2016.

The seventh session of the seminar was first for the day devoted to ‘Minority and Majority’ and was chaired by Sri Nand Kishore Acharya. In this session, two noted scholars, Rana Nayar and Pravin Pandya, presented their papers ‘Gandhi-Ambedkar Debate: Let us annihilate the cast as we eradicate untouchability’ and ‘Aadhe pul ki asamapt yatra’ respectively. Nayar’s paper focused on the system of caste with untouchability and the perceptions / positions of Gandhi and Ambedkar on it. He hoped for a society where Gandhi and Ambedkar can co-exist and such a society should be casteless and progressive. Pandya said that according to Gandhi minorities can be classified into three broad groups such as dharmic, samajik and rajneetik corresponding to personal, social and political spaces of the state. For Ambedkar though majority is the community which is traditional and casteist while minority is something that may have religious leanings sans system of caste. He also highlighted the socialist principles of Nehru which laid the foundation for a secular state.

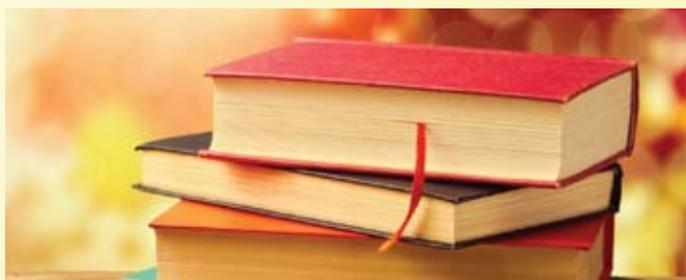

The eighth session was devoted to ‘Culture and Education’ and was chaired by Prof H.S. Shivaprakash, eminent poet and playwright. Two noted scholars Ms. Nilanjana Deb and Sri Satyanarayan Sahu presented their papers ‘The Refracted Light of Asia: the Negotiations of Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar with Orientalist Writing on Buddhism’ and ‘Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar on education and culture’ respectively. While the former focused on the different approaches taken by Gandhi, Nehru and Ambedkar on utilizing orientalist sources in promoting Buddhism, the latter focused on the three doyens’ contribution to education and culture. Prof Shivaprakash summed

February 14-15, 2016, Tirur

The regional office of Sahitya Akademi at Bengaluru, in collaboration with the Thunchan Memorial Trust organized a two-day seminar on 'Creativity and Freedom' at ThunchanParambu in Tirur on February 14-15, 2016. In the inaugural session, Sri K.P. Ramanunni, Member, Malayalam Advisory Board, Sahitya Akademi, welcomed the participants and audience. In his inaugural address, Dr Bhalanchandra Namade, Convener, Marathi Advisory Board, Sahitya Akademi, stated that "... intolerance is not a new term and its usage has increased in recent days. By engaging oneself continuously in creative endeavor or Writing, we can achieve freedom or independence. We shouldn't completely take advantage of freedom of expression and if one does so, he/she will be kept in prison. Mahatma Gandhiji, who advocated freedom of expression, wrote carefully using the very principle of it. Those who write against the interest of the public will receive threats. When we examine the history, it is being repeated in the developed countries too. After the invasion of British in India, most of the indigenous writers started writing in English and overlooked their mother tongues. English may be used for communication, but we must forget our mother tongue." In his keynote address, K. Siva Reddy, eminent Telugu poet, stated that with real freedom one can write better and observed that writing is not to fight but it is a means for one to express oneself in a meaningful way retaining integrity and individuality. Sri C. Radhakrishnan, Convener, Malayalam Advisory Board, Sahitya Akademi, chaired the inaugural session and spoke about the personality of Ezhuthachan and nature of his writings in the context of freedom and creativity. The regional office of Sahitya Akademi at Mumbai organized a symposium on Translation Culture in Western Region at the Akademi auditorium in Mumbai on January 6, 2016. In the inaugural session, Sri Krishna Kimbahune, Regional Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, Mumbai, welcomed the participants and audience and stated that translating major, landmark works into different languages should be the fulcrum of translation culture and added that all genres of literature, including criticism should be translated thus. In his inaugural address, Sri Ram Pandit, eminent Marathi translator, shared his experience of translation. He has meticulously translated Marathi literature into Urdu and vice-a-versa. He believed that such translation can bridge the cultures of two different regions, but felt that idioms of all languages cannot be translated, Hindi should be treated as a filter language, dictionaries containing at least half a lakh words in different translations should be published and further added that translating poetry is a major challenge to all translators. In his Presidential address, Sri Moinuddin Usmani, well-known Urdu writer and translator, observed that translation is more difficult than original writing and stated that translation is like a bouquet of flowers in which different languages and cultures thrive. Sri Usmani highlighted that India is a vast country in which language changes every 50 kms and expressed his deep anguish that translators are not given the recognition that is very much due to them. At the end of the inaugural session, all the participants, dignitaries and audience paid homage to the departed eminent litterateurs Mangesh Padgaonkar and Labhshankar Thakar.

The first session was chaired by Namdev Tarachandani and Raman Soni presented a paper on literary culture in Gujarati language. He started his paper by recalling the translation of Panchtantra which was a first printed translation brought out in 1824. The translation work was introduced in Gujarati literature by a Parsi which is a unique event. He recollected that majority of translation in Gujarati was done from Bengali language by Nagindas Parekh. He opined that translation workshops should be organized periodically to promote the translation culture. A paper on the Konkani translation culture was presented by Prashanti Talpankar. She referred to the young translators who do not understand the concept of translation. They lack mastery over the language and hence the work suffers. Some of the latest translations have hybrid language where Konkani is primarily mixed with Marathi words and also sprinkled with Portuguese words too. She concluded that language should not be hated. Translation industry is knowledge based industry, colleges and universities should include translation studies in their curriculum. To maintain the unique character of Goa, we need to go back to our original nature – the multilingual characters and not mono-lingual. The third paper in the series on Marathi culture was presented by Neelima Bhave. She described translation as a creative writing in Marathi. The initial translation was vastly of mythological tales. The translation of Bhagwad Geeta by Sant Dnyaneshwar is a milestone of translation in Marathi literature. The Marathi translation too is influenced by Bengali literature. Mama Warerkar translated many short stories from Bengali into Marathi. Dilip Chitre brought the Western literature to Marathi. She also suggested of having quality review of the translations. The last paper in this session on Sindhi literature culture was presented by Jetho Lalwani who started with his paper with the phrase Na Chhodo Na Jodo which is well suited for translators. The first translation in Sindhi literature was done in 1736. The Sindhi translation includes the plays of Shakespeare of which the Sindhi litterateurs were influenced more. The translations by Hiro Thakur of Samrchnavad and Kabir Vachnavali by Kamla Goklani are considered a gem of work in Sindhi. The translation of Dnyaneshwari from Marathi into Sindhi by Laxman Hardwani is also considered a pearl. The translators also carry the media translations as there is no dedicated media channel for Sindhi. He also opined of having translation workshops and seminars on such subjects in Sindhi. Namdev Tarachandani, the chair, concluded the session by the phrase Best Drama is No Drama likewise a good translation is no translation but original.

The Second session was chaired by Raman Soni and paper presented in Gujarati, Konkani, Marathi and Sindhi were by Panna Trivedi, Gokuldas Prabhu, Balwant Jeurkar and Namdev Tarachandani respectively. Panna Trivedi while presenting her paper recalled the eminent Gujarati translator Umashankar Joshi who brought a journal named Sanskruti on the translation works. The criticism is the major field of interest for a translator. The translation work takes a reader on a journey of Indian culture. Gokuldas Prabhu pointed out that Konkani people migrated in different states and adopted the local language which resulted a setback for Konkani literature. The translation work in Konkani primarily was of Marathi spiritual literature which gradually progressed to poetry, prose and plays. The Kannada works are also translated in Konkani but a vice-a-versa is still pending. He considered that Konkani language is exposed to many languages therefore it doesn't need any filter or intermediate language for translation. Balwant Jeurkar while presenting his paper on Marathi translation culture was glad to note that there were many literary journals which has resulted in positive atmosphere for translation. The translation regularly updates the contemporary world. He also stresses for having a dictionary on translation. He pointed that translation in Marathi literature is on cloud nine in contemporary generation and to prove his point he gave an instance of reviewing a Kannada work in Marathi which was translated again in Kannada and brought out in book form. While presenting his paper on Sindhi translation culture, Namdev Tarachandani affirmed that translator should be bi-cultural. He should have immense passions and calmness while translating a work. The translation is always compromised in Sindhi literature. The Sindhi literature lacks the selection of good literature for translation. The process of filtration should be challenging. He reiterated the need of reading habit in young generation which can result in good translator. Sri Krishna Kimbahune, Regional Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, Mumbai, proposed the vote of thanks.

NARI CHETANA

January 9, 2016, Udgir

The regional office of Sahitya Akademi at Mumbai, in association with the Udgir branch of Marathwada Sahitya Parishad a 'Nari Chetna' programme on January 9, 2016 in Udgir. On January 18 2016, Prof. Jingkui delivered a lecture at Mumbai University. Jinag Jingkui began with saying that he was an Indian in China, and a Chinese in India. He shared that he had been into the study of India and Hindi language for 30 years, and he held that it was the British who had destroyed the harmonious relationship between India and China. People in both the nations should understand that literature, culture are the vibrant elements that could strengthen the bonds between the two nations, he said. He observed that a third of the Chinese civilization was deeply influenced by Indian civilization. India transmitted Buddhism to China through translation, and hence the art of translation played a poignant role in maintaining the relationship between the two countries, he said. He informed that his department had been undertaking translations of Sahitya Akademi Award winning literary works of art into Chinese, and he was very proud of this work. He also shared that Rabindranath Tagore, MunshiPremchand, DrKotnis, and Bollywood are extremely famous in China. After his talk, he charmingly answered queries by enthusiastic students. Prof. Urvashi Pandya, Gurudev Rabindranath Tagore Chair of Mumbai University, proposed a vote of thanks.

OCTAVE 2016

February 12, 2016, Vadodara

The regional office of Sahitya Akademi at Mumbai, in collaboration with West Zone Cultural Center, Udaipur, organized a Symposium on Literature of the North-East India: Tradition and Innovation, and a Poets' Meet as part of Octave 2016 in Vadodara, Gujarat, at Sayajinagar Griha, Akota, on February 12, 2016. In the inaugural session, Sri Krishna Kimbahune, Regional Secretary, Sahitya Akademi, Mumbai, welcomed the participants and audience and introduced the participants to audience. Dr Desmond Kharmawphlang, renowned poet and critic, delivered keynote address at the symposium. In the keynote address Dr Kharmawphlang said, "The movingly theatrical physical features of North-East India is home to a staggering multitude of peoples and communities, who, till not very long, lived in close harmony with a bio-diversity almost unrivaled in the world. The songs and epics, the folklore and literature are the direct products of the interface between nature and culture - the human agency obtains its muse from this conflation and tongues and voices are created. Poets articulate and rejoice in dilating the aspects of the ecology, myths, rituals, mysteries, mysterious faiths and demographic traits. Their poetry is the celebration of the rural flavour of their native places and of their neighbours creating an almost illogical sense of yearning and belonging for the land, the inflections of which is rarely found in contemporary literature.” Noted poets, Sri Swmdwn Brahma (Bodo), Sri Pranavjyoti Narzary (Assamese), Sri Naorem Vidyasagar Singha and Sri. H. Nanikumar Singh (Manipuri), Sri Jivan Namdung and Sri Bhakta Sanwar (Nepali) recited their poems.

Sri Jivan Namdung, noted writer in Nepali, chaired the next session, and Sri Dilip Bora (Assamese), Sri Pranavjyoti Narzary (Bodo), Sri H. Nanikumar Singh (Manipuri) presented their papers. Sri Dilip Bora stated that Assamese society, enriched with a bevy of folk festivals, celebrations and art and culture, has a huge treasure of folktales which has always been a subject to wonder for all. Just in the way these folk literature has reflected the traditional scenario of Assamese society, similarly, these have also proved the innovative qualities of Assam and its people as well. Modern Assamese literature also has gone a long way. It has to be realized that literature can never survive simply being confined in the traditions, traditions can just be considered as the base or foundation of literature, and literature keeps flowing towards an unseen future passing through the traditions and innovations and the same momentum can also be witnessed in Assamese literature.” Sri Pranavjyoti Narzary observed that the Bodo language is a newly emerging language. The literary development in the language came centuries later in comparison to the other major languages in India. The genres - short story, novel, poetry in Bodo are still in the stage of adolescence. Nevertheless, the elements of tradition and modernity figure prominently in Bodo literature. The genres like travel writing, biography, children literature are coming up with new enthusiasm and genuineness. Social unrest, ethnic movements, and lack of lasting peace are other factors that have stood in the way of steady development of Bodo literature. Sri H. Nanikumar Singha’s paper discussed as to how traditions have played a significant role in making Manipuri literature innovative. Sri Sudhanshu Singh, Additional Director, West Zone Cultural Center, Udaipur, proposed a vote of thanks.
